Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALL pyright, 1921, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Berlin, March 11. Following a secret session of the

Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag to-day, before which Dr Walter Simons, German Foreign Minister and head of the Berlin delegation to the reparations conference it London, defended his policy in his colleagues in the London confe

Dr. Simons, it is said, told the Reichstag committee that the Government had no intentions at this time of making new reparations proposals to the Entente.

Hugo Stinnes in igorously attacked the conduct of Dr. Simons at London. Thus Germany's leading industrialist, who frepersons to have inspired the policy of Dr. Simons, and to have guided him in formulating unacceptable reparations terms with the aim of wrecking the London conference, was shown is another light to-day.

His Rebuke to Stinner

The spirit of Herr Stinnes's attack vas so savage, especially on the point that the German Foreign Minister had not listened attentively enough to advice, that Dr. Simons finally turned upon Herr Stinnes, saying:

"Always I shall be glad to have your counsel, but it is well for you to remember that I am not your young nan (ich bin nicht ihr Junger Mann)." Herr Stinnes accused Dr. Simons of having gone beyond Germany's ability to pay even in his first offer in London and of having followed a policy which generally lacked ideas. "If I tried to do business that way
